PERIL OF THE PEERLESS IN PENNSYLVANIA

SIGNERS RELIABLE DECLARES BERRY

Former State Treasurer Says Individual Securities Are Safest

Bonds Indorsed by Responsible Men and Record Carefully Investigated

Special to The Inquirer.

CHESTER, Pa., May 10.—Former State Treasurer Berry, in an interview tonight, declared that there was no occasion whatever for any uneasiness about the safety of the deposit in the Allegheny Bank. In the first place, this bank has not failed, and in the second place, in case it does fail, even disastrously, the State deposits are safely secured.

Must Be Indorsed

"In my opinion," he said, "individual bonds are safer than either corporation or collateral security, because individual bonds must be indorsed by a number of responsible men. The record of these signers, which number from twelve to fifteen to each bond, is carefully investigated by a competent agent of the Treasury Department, making the individual bond solid security.

"On the other hand, a corporation bond is filed without individual signers, and in several instances the Treasury Department has narrowly escaped losing deposits by the weakness of corporation securities.

"It consumes from three weeks to a month for a treasury representative to secure the necessary information in investigating the record of the signers on each individual bond, and it is for this necessary delay that the Treasury Department prefers corporation bonds, as the manner of securing them greatly facilitates the work of securing and filing of bonds.

Saved by Individual Bondsmen

The Enterprise Bank, and a bank at Lancaster which failed, were both amply protected by individual bonds, while the State deposits in two banks which failed during my incumbency were saved by individual bondsmen, the money being returned to the State within two weeks. ACHESON IN BANK CASE

May Ask if Money to Beat Him Came From Allegheny National

Special to The Inquirer.

PITTSBURG, May 10.—Persistent silence on the part of Cashier William Montgomery, of the Allegheny National Bank, under $50,000 bond for a hearing before United States Commissioner William T. Lindsay, May 18, charged with the responsibility for a shortage of almost half a million dollars of the bank's funds, has aroused comment throughout the country and furnished foundation for various rumors as to the disposition made of the money.

A story is in circulation that Representative Acheson believes the opposition to him in the late bitter contest in the Twenty-fourth district was financed from this source and that he may take steps, through a resolution introduced in the House, to get at the facts.

It is said Mr. Acheson may introduce a resolution calling on the Comptroller of the Currency for a full report of the dealings of all politicians with the Allegheny National Bank and whether or not its losses were due in whole or in part to political loans.

BUSINESS MEN TO ENTER POLITICS

National Manufacturers' Association Will Carry War Against Labor to the Polls

Protest to Administration Against Amendments to Anti-Trust Law and Anti-Injunction Bill

Special to The Inquirer.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Never before has there been a more dramatic and at the same time a more dignified protest against an attempted governmental policy than that which has been recorded here during the last ten days. It bears on the attempt of the administration to force through Congress the amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law, and the so-called anti-injunction bill.

It is believed that the administration is now seriously questioning whether it has not made a mistake, but whatever the outcome may be the movement marks the entry of practically every manufacturer in the United States into the political arena where the challenge of the American Federation of Labor will be taken up.

Business Men to Enter Politics

The news telegram from St. Louis today that the business men who are sounding the slogan "Let us alone" would carry the fight into politics, was the first intimation of such a movement afoot. There is much additional confirmation of the purpose obtainable here.

To accentuate the situation the National Association of Manufacturers with a membership of 3000 will begin a movement to carry the war against labor's demands to the polls, and become active in politics at a convention which will open at the Waldorf-Astoria on May 19. This will be a notable gathering, because the members of the association under the leadership of J. W. Van Cleave, the president, has decided that the time has come when the controversy with labor must be finally decided in a death grapple at the polls.

The most prominent speakers will be Representative C. E. Littlefield, of Maine, who was one of the members of Congress marked for slaughter by Mr. Gompers in 1906, but who was re-elected. Thus the fight is already on, and it is said to rest with the President and Congress to finally choose which side they will remain with, for every sign indicates that the manufacturers are completely roused, and feel that they are at last making a fight for continued existence.

CONGRESS TO RUSH ITS SUPPLY BILLS

Expects to Complete Them and Other Legislation Booked for Passage by May 25

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The supply bills of Congress, in which appropriations are to be made for the support of the government for the next fiscal year beginning on July 1, are in such condition in both Houses that if no complications arise in connection with other legislation it will be possible to reach a final adjournment by the 25th inst. There are fourteen of these general measures, carrying an aggregate of almost a billion dollars, and of these the House of Representatives, in which all of them originate, has passed twelve, except the Military Academy and the General Deficiency bill.

The Academy bill will be reported to the House early this week and the Deficiency bill not later than Thursday, so that if it were desirable both bills could be passed by that body before adjournment next Saturday night.

The Senate is not so well along. However, it is unusually close upon the heels of the lower body, and in addition to the Deficiency and Academy bills has left only the Postoffice and the Sundry Civil bills.

While a majority of the appropriation bills have been passed by both houses, only two have received the approval of the President and become laws. These are the Urgent Deficiency bill and the Indian bill. Many of the others are in conference.

The ceremonies will begin by an introductory concert by the United State Marine Band, of Panama, followed by a Pan-American Panama hymn, embodying strains from the national airs of the twenty-one American nations.

HONOR TO MEMORY OF GREAT PASTOR

Monument to Francis Makemie, Pioneer of Presbyterianism, to Be Unveiled

Notable Gathering of Memorialists, Headed by Dr. H. C. McCook, to Meet at Pocomoke

Special to The Inquirer.

POCOMOKE, Md., May 10.—On Thursday next there will be a notable gathering to do honor to the memory of the pioneer of Presbyterianism in America, Rev. Francis Makemie. The monument, which will be dedicated on the two hundredth anniversary of the death of Makemie, stands in the family burial ground at Makemie Park, a short distance south of this town. The monument is of heroic size. The square pedestal is surmounted with the figure of a clergyman in gown and bands. The right hand holds a book, and the left points upward.

The Inscription

The inscription on the monument is as follows:

"Erected in Gratitude to God and in grateful remembrance of His servant and minister, Francis Makemie, who was born in Ramelton, County Donegal, Ireland, A. D. 1658, educated at Glasgow University, Scotland, and came as an ordained Evangelist to the American Colonies, A. D. 1683, at the request of Col. William Stevens, of Rehoboth, Md. A devout and able preacher of our Lord's Gospel, he labored faithfully and freely for twenty-five years in Maryland and Virginia. A Christian gentleman, an enterprising man of affairs, a public spirited citizen, a distinguished advocate of Religious Liberty, for which he suffered under the Governor of New York, he is especially remembered as The Chief Founder of Organized Presbytery in America, A. D. 1706, and is the first Moderator of the General Presbytery. He died at his home, whose site is near by, in the summer of A. D. 1708, and was buried in his family cemetery, located on this spot; dedicated with this monument to his memory A. D. 1908, by the American Presbyterian Historical Society, seated at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania."

Dr. McCook's Efforts

The cost of the monument was $6000, and Dr. McCook hopes that liberal Presbyterians will subscribe a sufficient sum to be invested, so that the income may be used to keep the cemetery in order.

It was chiefly through the efforts of Dr. McCook that the farm of Francis Makemie was purchased. The land being the property of the Historical Society.

The unveiling of the monument will be witnessed by many people, the Pennsylvania Railroad will run a special train from Philadelphia on that day, and the New Castle Presbytery will attend in a body.

Elaborate Program

An elaborate program has been arranged as follows:

Prayer of invocation, Rev. J. R. North, LL. D., pastor of Makemie Memorial Church, Snow Hill; introductory statement, Dr. Henry C. McCook; commemorative poem, Francis Makemie; Presbytery of America, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton University; church historical address, Rev. L. P. Bowen; remarks, "Makemieland," Dr. John S. McMaster, Jersey City; address, Senator Walter Smith, of Maryland; dedicatory prayer, Dr. W. W. Moore, president Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va.; delivering the keys and custody of the Makemie Park Cemetery and Makemie Monument, John McIlhenny, of Philadelphia; acceptance of the keys, Dr. Frank Fletcher, of Jenkins Bridge, Va.; unveiling of the statue, Rev. John A. McKamy, editor of Westminster Teacher, Nashville, Tenn.; pastors and elders of the original churches founded by Francis Makemie will join in this ceremony; benediction, Rev. R. L. Agnew, D. GOOD ROADS FOR DELAWARE

Sussex Levy Court to Compel Improvements to Be Started

Special to The Inquirer.

GEORGETOWN, Del., May 10.—The movement for good roads will take tangible shape this week when the Sussex Levy Court will start proceedings to compel the better improvement of a main road in Indian River.

At the same time work will probably begin on a five-mile road from Georgetown to Robbins, for which an annual appropriation of $1000 will be made for five years. With the new road from Georgetown toward Seaford accepted, the work of continuing the road will be taken up and by the end of summer half the distance to Seaford is expected to be completed.

Gravel has been found to be the best material for the Delaware roads, and Levy Court will now take speedy action and expect in a few years to have well nigh perfect roads through the county.
